Why Don't We Accept The Rules Of The Game And Play It Accordingly?

BY FRANK LLOYD

Now that Dr. Millikan has confirmed what some of us suspected, that man's mightiest efforts are too puny to rock the earth into dust, we may return to consideration of the forthcoming expression of opinion at the polls on the question of whether large scale room-renting in the residential area is to be encouraged officially in Carmel.

Quite by coincidence, yesterday I drove through Pacific Grove. Dismally from this window and that hung a plaintive sign, "ROOM". I drove away feeling depressed. The sign somehow suggests a descent from better days.

And in Carmel the sad little sign occasionally sits in the window, usually in some older house which has known happy days of children and dogs scampering in and out, occasionally in some brand-new house, carefully planned with a bedroom in front with separate entrance.

Someone suggested to me a while ago that this, like every proposed change in Carmel zoning laws was born of some real estate brokers desire to stir things up a little, get the market back into action when it is stalled by high prices. I wonder: Could it really be true that real estate agents who depend upon Carmel for their permanent livelihood would do such a thing purposely? And yet it is not difficult to see how tempting it might be.

And I don't think it would be beyond conceiving that the same agent who told a piano teacher that Carmel was a hot spot for her profession (it isn't, except for the exceptional!) would stoop to other dodges to sell property.

And how often is it rumored that the busienss zone is about to be expanded around its margin?

Well, let's not blame the harassed real estate agents this time. Let's just assume that it's the

Talented Cast To Appear In Senior Play Tonight

At 8:00 o'clock this evening Mrs. Maraquita Brey and a group of pride-flushed parents and school mates will draw deep breaths and join the Sunset Auditorium audience.

Carmel High School presents this year's annual Senior drama, Little Women, after six long weeks of preparatory effort, frustration and triumph. Despite rehearsal problems, due to space and time limitations, Mrs. Brey, drama director, feels that her group's fine cooperative spirit is producing a first class performance. Cast and Mrs. Brey have sacrificed 12 hours each week in formal rehearsal and as many more in coordination and study. Costumes, fruit of individual enterprise, are largely clever adaptations of modern fashions, full skirts looped and bustled, jackets pinched and brief, short hair mysteriously piled high. School carpenters and painters designed, produced and placed the sets in extra curricular hours and bear proudly resultant battle scars on thumbs, noses, elbows and garments. Homes were combed for suitable and perfect properties, while basic furnishings were generously loaned by William LaPorte.

After a number of competitive tryouts Joan Daniels was assigned the role of lovable Jo. Joan is a willowy and suitably boyish brunette who has had previous dramatic experience with the Forest Theater Guild. Others with Theater Guild experience are Dee Sharpe, who plays the fragile Beth, Edith Stebbins who portrays Hannah, and Nancie Brown taking the part of Meg. Remainder of the cast include: Connie Campbell as Amy; Ann Thoeni as Marmee; Bill Albee as John Brooke; Ronnie Peterson as Laurie; Jim Hare as Mr. Laurence; Mary El Horne as Aunt March; Keith MacKenzie as Mr. March and Peter Lyon assumes the difficult role and dialect of Professor Baer.

The hard working technical staff includes: Janice Hatton, Ann Ferrante, Connie McKibbin, Eleanor Taggart, Ann Marie Tanous, Edelen Cory, Ann Whittaker, Bobby Sapsis, Harvya Hodges, Jerry Yoakum, Shirley Elliott, Marlene Becar, Joan Sanders, Christine Malvido, Carol Bedau, Nancy Santee, Betty Maloney, Cynthia Zarafonitis, Mary Masuen, Tom Handley, Birney Adams, Ed Goodrick, Henry Werner, Erik Short, Mike Dormody, Lee Laugenour, Frank Richey and Mickey Frisbie.

Tickets for the performance may be purchased from any senior or at the door of Sunset Auditorium. Prices are 80c for adults, 50c for children 12 or under.

Come On, Now, Lets All Hang Onto Our Cards From Peter

If you are a registered voter in Carmel, some time this week end you will receive a card from City Clerk Peter Mawdsley informing you of your voting precinct and polling place for the city election of April 11.

Peter requests that you take the card to the polling place so election board members won't have to look up your precinct number, but can process you with dispatch, keeping the line of voters moving forward and avoiding the bottleneck that gave rise to criticism following the school bond election.

With five candidates running for two seats on the city council, and the Advisory Question on the ballot (it is also on the card you will receive this week end) a good proportion of the 2601 registered voters are likely to turn out. If everybody can manage to hang onto his card until April 11, no jam-up at the polls should occur, even though the vote tops the 55 percent of last city election, when ten candidates were fighting over three council seats.

Polls will be open from 9:00 to 7:00 p.m. For further details see legal announcement in this issue of the Pine Cone.

Peace In Sight Between B.R.T. Co. And Joe's Taxi; Here's Mrs. Oliveiro's Story

The fight between Bay Rapid Transit and Joe's Taxi Depot, in which the citizens of Carmel have been caught in between, or more literally, left out in the cold, is working toward an early settlement. Nellie Oliveiro, owner of Joe's Taxi Depot, told the Pine Cone yesterday that she has instructed her lawyer, Toby Street, to discuss with the B.R.T. their resuming the use of Joe's Taxi Depot as a terminal for the Bay Rapid Transit Busses, and she expects a settlement of the dispute "very soon."

Matters were brought to a head at last city council meeting when a letter was read from Leslie Realty Company addressed to the Carmel Police Department. The Leslies complained of being "hounded" by bus patrons since the Bay Rapid Transit Company had separated from Joe's Taxi Bus Depot and that the main bus traffic that used to embark at Joe's Taxi now boards the bus at their corner. They asked the council to have the situation corrected.

It was brought out in discussion at the council meeting that the bus depot location of Joe's Taxi was created under a property rezoning classification granted especially for that use (a depot where the Bay Rapid Transit could take on and discharge passengers.) The council requested the City Attorney Thomas Perry to take the matter up with the Bay Rapid Transit and with Joe's Taxi, urging upon them the necessity of renewing the use of the depot in order to retain the special zoning benefit. Perry told the Pine Cone he had talked to Mrs. Oliveiro's attorney and that things were "being worked out."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Oliveiro, feeling that there has been misunderstanding about her part in the affair, has requested the Pine Cone to print the following letter in which she states her position.

TO THE EDITOR:

As Administratrix for the Estate of my husband, Joe Oliveiro, the founder of Joe's Taxi and the Carmel Valley Bus Line, I would like to clear up in the minds of

Wildlife Film And Talk On Los Padres Forest On March 29

The Conservation - Wildlife lecture series continues on Wednesday, March 29 with attention directed toward the wise use of our forest resource. L. A. "Gus" Rickel, Forest Supervisor from Santa Barbara will speak at Sunset Auditorium, 8 p.m. on that date. His subject will be Multiple Uses of our National Forests. Mr. Rickel is widely known on the Peninsula and has a stimulating message to bring to his audience. His task as Supervisor of the Los Padres National Forest puts him in a position to give a timely discussion of local problems and to direct our attention to the significance of the Los Padres Forest as a major water shed as well as its function in the care of wildlife. It is important for us to understand the position of the Los Padres Forest in the overall federal and state conservation programs.

The lecture will be illustrated. Everyman's Empire and Realm of the Wild will be shown.

Realm of the Wild shows many Forest mammals and birds; among these are ptarmigan, grouse, bighorn sheep, antelope, moose, and deer.

Famous Carmel Artists In The Making

AGE . . . 3 AND 4

And make me a child again, just for the space of one morning, with a dish of watercolors and the world about me to capture, just as I see and feel it, without any overlay of the sophisticated and civilized, but a turtle, a blue bird, a long piece of kelp with a mermaid tail, a rainbow and a tree, and let me put it down on a piece of paper before it is lost forever, while imagination and originality are fresh from the hands of the creator.

And if you cannot believe that the homesickness for childhood and childhood's miraculous unconstraint are not hidden deep in us all, go up to Mrs. Prosser's shop, The Artist's Palette, on Sixth street and stand among your peers, who, studying the watercolors and finger paintings of the Blue Jay Nursery School children, have for the moment all turned to children again. You may find it a little crowded there, for, like children, the people crowd and jostle a bit, and laugh and wonder, and say what they think without thinking.

When Jay Tuthill, who runs the school, decided to place the pictures on exhibition, she hesitated for fear few, if any, would see in them what she saw. Mrs. Prosser says the place has been a madhouse. It is. The kind of madhouse we elders contrive when we see how much we have missed, how cluttered and coy and overdriven our own lives have become.

Look at young Master Loch Lowman's Bird Tree. A dozen or so bluebirds, perched on a veritable tree, all looking in the same direction. The worm isn't visible, but he is there just the same, and the feeling that all will take flight in the same moment, swooping. Kenny White's Sunrise is a picture of a sun, all splendour, coming instantly over a hill, and 3 year old Bobbie Moffat has made a finger painting of Grass Rustling that sounds in your ears with the little breeze that has just risen. In Paget Decker's Mr. Turtle and Tree, Mr. Turtle is a fat, fast moving carapace, with all his appendages strewn Dali-like about him, but somehow they get together and you can see him scurrying.

Roads to School, by Lindsay Jeffers, wind round about like Carmel roads, and Cary Kohler has the storm signals up in Wind Blowing. Peter Gamble's Monterey Wharf, its piles a speck surrealistic, is a wharf all the same.

Honors go to Paula Clampett with her finger paintings, Up the Hills We Go and Red Ship, and Lady Swimming, and to Peter Gamble for Watching Sea Gulls, and Kelp. Paula, at the age of barely three has something strictly her own, and it is to be hoped that the originality she has now will be hers, unspoiled, twenty years hence.

I have given each child his due mention, not because they are children, but because, under Jay Tuthill's loving and sure direction, they have produced works of art. The pictures were named by the children themselves, and sometimes they were inspired by the objects they saw and sometimes they sang little songs, and then il-

Suicide Possible In Death Of Woman Found In Gulch

A torn and empty box that had contained 12 to 15 veronal tablets was found by Elmer Machado, county coroner, near the ravine in which the body of Miss Ruth Henry, missing Carmel woman, was discovered Wednesday morning after a 24 hour search of the Hatton Fields area. The body was found by Oran D. Young of Monterey in the small gulch near the southern junction of Mesa Drive and Highway 1, at 9 o'clock in the morning.

Thursday afternoon the report of the toxicologist had not come in, so that Coroner Machado was not prepared to state the cause of her death.

According to Miss Clara Mohr, with whom the 77 year old woman had recently been living, Miss Henry left her home on Taylor Road at about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, clad only in bathrobe and pajamas, and it was thought at the time that she might have stepped into the house of a friend.

A 50-man sheriff's posse had reassembled Wednesday morning to resume the hunt, after searching 12 hours the previous day, when the body was discovered. Sheriff Jack McCoy was on the job with his mounted posse, aided by the Jeep Patrol. Members of both bodies came from Monterey, Salinas, Pacific Grove and Castroville to augment the number of searchers.

Miss Henry, according to Miss Mohr, had been recently confined in a rest home and was unhappy in her changed environment. An acute sufferer from arteriosclerosis, she had been ill for some time.

Private funeral services were held yesterday at the Little Chapel by the Sea, Pacific Grove, the Paul Mortuary in charge.

PADRE NINE LASHES PACIFIC GROVE, 13 TO 2; UPSET M. P. C., 3 TO 2

Carmel High School's surging baseball team turned back the challenges of the Pacific Grove Breakers and the Monterey Peninsula College nines in last week's play and now find themselves atop the B division standings in the CCAL. Henry Overin turned in a masterful pitching performance in downing the Breakers. The crafty little left-hander set the visitors down with three blows and was the boss all the way. Jim Hare continued his torried hitting by lashing the PG pitching for two safeties in three attempts. Lee Laugenour also liked the deliveries served up by the PG hurlers and cracked out a solid three for five.

In a well-played game last Tuesday afternoon, the Padres eked out a 3-2 win over the MPC aggregation. By parlaying their three hits into three runs, the local preps coasted to victory behind Henry Overin's fourt-hit hurling. The Carmel lefty had his curve ball twisting in big-league fashion and sent 8 college swingers back to the bench via the strikeout route. Hare, Overin, and Laugenour were the only Padres able to connect for base blows, Overin's poke going for a triple.

Short score — Breakers game:

Pacific Grove	2	3	4
Carmel	13	10	1

Short score — M.P.C. game:

Carmel	3	3	2
M. P. C.	2	4	1

CARMEL TRACKMEN DEFEAT SALINAS AND HOLLISTER

A gallant little band of tracksters from Carmel High School journeyed to Salinas last Saturday to provide some easy competition for the powerful squads fielded by the Hollister Haybalers and the Salinas Cowboys. However, when the final relay had been run, the Byrne-mentored Padres had accumulated enough points to win the meet by 14 comfortable markers. Led by Tom Handley and Gene McFarland, the scrappy Padres snared eight first places to rudely upset the favorites. Handley copped the high hurdles and the discus and placed second in the broad jump to wind up the day with 13 points. The swift McFarland won both sprints to contribute 10 points on the Carmel side of the score sheet. Frans Doelman, the new distance-running sensation at Carmel High School, edged Dick Weer in the 880 as Carmel ran one-two. Birney Adams lifted his 185 pounds over 10-6 to win the pole vault. Keith McKenzie jumped 5-7 to pick up another five in the high jump, while Gene Vandervort won the shot put. Denico Narvaez, Legare McNeill, Pete Berg, Erik Short, Pete Lyon, and Henry Overin picked up additional places to swell the Padre score.

The Carmel lightweights were badly outmanned by the larger schools but managed to pick up 16 points for their efforts. Bruce Robison won the only Carmel first place when he scooted the three-lap race ahead of all competition. Bill White got a third in the 120 hurdles, while Myron Branson earned a second in the 660 yard run and a third in the discus.

CARMEL KIDS GET ANOTHER LOOK AT THE BIG LEAGUERS THIS SUNDAY

Still bug-eyed from last Sunday's visit to Seals Stadium where they saw all the stars of the Cleveland Indians perform, the Carmel High School baseball team is looking forward to this Sunday's repeat performance when they will have a look at the big guns on the Pittsburgh Pirate squad.

Sponsored by Carmel's sportsmined Mayor, Fred Godwin, the baseball hegiras are giving the Carmel kids an opportunity to see how baseball at its best is played. Last Sunday, the Carmel lads not only got a look at Lou Boudreau & Company but they took an educational tour through the Golden Gate Museum and Aquarium. In the entourage which had a thoroughly enjoyable time were baseball players Lee Laugenour, Neils Reimers, Don Canham, Butch Laugenour, Bill Daniels, Bob Updike, Jim Hare, Frank Cleary, Bill Chalkley, Gerald McDonald, Gene Vandervort, Henry Overin, Denicio Narvaez, Myron Branson, Mike Ricketts, Stu Emery, Skipper Lloyd, Pete Newell, Mike Elliott, Dick Weer, Bradley Dixon, Bob Campbell, and Joe Beard. On hand to handle the finer points of the game were such good sideline coaches as Hizzoner Fred Godwin, Harrison Godwin & Sons, Fred Mylar (Fire Department heavy hitter), J. O. Handley, Officer Dufur, Gene Ricketts, Harry Brownell, Ray Brownell, Bob Bullock, John Monroe, Jack Giles, and George Mosolf.

Next Sunday the players will take off from the Carmel police station at 9:30 a.m. and will be the guests of Lefty O'Doul at Seals Stadium. Naturally, a few of the sideline coaches will be on hand to point out how the big leaguers should have handled the tough chances.

NOTICE TO SOFTBALL PLAYERS

Starting Monday night, Mar., 27, at 7:30 the Sunset Field will have the lights turned on for softball practice of The Carmel Pine Cone Softball Club, who will open the 1950 season in Carmel April 22.

SOFTBALL SEASON IS JUST AROUND THE CORNER

With old and young Abalone Leaguers getting the fever, the Pine Cone and Wilder & Jones signing players, and the Bay Softball League ready to roll, Joe Softball Fan will soon be able to make a nightly trek to Sunset Field and enjoy the torrid sessions which have become a habit at the cozy softball orchard.

The Abalone League is sparked by heavy sluggers Mike Balazs, Allen Knight, Cliff Cook, and the lightning scorekeeper, Bonnie Giles. Players of all ages who want to participate in a few Sundays of fun at the high school field are asked to contact any of the above sparkplugs and teams will be organized for play on April 2nd. As in past years, women, children, and men will comprise the roster of the competing teams.

At the Bay League meeting last week, directors voted a Monterey-Pacific Grove entry into the league. The Rasmussen Sports Shop will be the official entry of the two cities. A team from Santa Cruz has applied for admission and will probably be granted a spot in the circuit.

COCRANES OFF FOR EUROPE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Cochrane will leave Carmel March 28 for New York, where they will sail April 28 on the Queen Elizabeth for England. They will be gone five months, spending more than two months in the British Isles and two months in Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark. While they are away their home on Hatton Fields Mesa will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Young of Kansas City, Mo., who have been close friends of the Cochranes for many years.

While abroad Mr. Cochrane will write a series of articles for a New York syndicate on social and economic conditions in the countries they will visit.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press, Dial Carmel 7-3881.

CRICKET DETAIL

The Del Monte Cricket Club is launching spring preparations for the summer season which opens officially in early May. Elected to office at a recent meeting were: George Calvert, captain; Vic Mantilla, vice captain; Alex Merivale, secretary; George Dear, coach.

A practise session will be held Sunday, March 26, at Carmel High School, starting at 2:30 p.m. All potential cricketers and cricket folllowers are urged to attend.

To Carmel residents and visitors there will be something new under the sun this week end. There is the gay striped awning covering a portion of the Village Corner patio. And there will be three lighted display cases on the east wall in which the arts and handicrafts of Carmel artisans will be rotatingly exhibited. Conceived, designed and constructed by Hugh W. Comstock, builder, the recessed shadow cases will bring the artistry of Carmel craftsmen out of the studios into the open. The above reproduction of the canopied patio is from a watercolor by Harvey Williamsion of the Comstock office.

Cottons, cottons, cottons everywhere you look and HARRIET DUNCAN has cotton blouses to go with the best looking skirts you ever saw. Everything including ginghams, chintz, pique and linen go to make up these skirts. Tuck in a cotton blouse (they have all the gay spring colors you can think of!) and for the price of one you'll have three or four smart outfits—all skirts and blouses at budget prices. Whether you like your skirt belted, flared or pencil-line HARRIET DUNCAN has them. And to go with them the most beautiful handmade belts you ever saw for only $4.95. Suitable for sportswear and dressy occasions. Try them on today!

Happy Easter to you! And just to make you happier, MARIANNA'S is offering the best (with a capital B!) in the Easter bonnets. Such a variety never to be equaled. You'll find sweet little numbers trimmed with the gayest flowers and—something new—nylon net straw! But aside from the nylon, of course there are many made of the finest straw. A cute little number fitting snugly to the head and oh, so smartly tailored, is made entirely out of grosgrain ribbon, done by Styleparks. It comes in red, pink, and green and in two different styles—the Tam o' shanter and the sunbonnet. Prices on all hats range from $5.00 to $12.98. How can you miss?

MARIANNA'S is also offering the best in gloves—Van Raalte; both the shorty and long to go with that new hat. They come in all colors and are only—can you believe it—$1.50 to $3.00! New spring shades in hosiery are out too, by the way, you'll find your favorites: Goldstripe, Van Raalte, Berkshire, Larkwood up to $1.50. Yes, for Easter hats and accessories, it's MARRIANNA'S.

Whoever heard of an Easter bonnet without an Easter suit to go with it! And the COLLEGIATE is the place to take your pick these days. For that ensemble, suitable to absolutely any occasion is a smartly styled navy blue gabardine suit with short belted jacket and—for a summery touch—a removable white pique collar! COLLEGIATE have an excellently stocked line in all light wool suits, too, both boxed jacket and fitted in a great variety of colors. Here's a tip, ladies, Worsted rayon suits are here in gay pastels—a real spring bouquet. You'll get as much wear out of these stunning outfits as the wool suits, and for only half the price! For thrifty shopping, yes, it's the COLLEGIATE these days.

Attention to all of you whether you be Co-Ed, Career girl, young married or Matron! It's a known fact that the hairdresser's skill, ability and judgement of hair texture are largely responsible for the perfect Permanent Wave and it's also a known fact that WOODARD'S is tops in this line. Gone are those kinky curls so hard to manage. After a treatment at WOODARD'S your hair will be smooth, shiny and soft. This natural looking hair-do is suited to you and only you. The smooth rythmic lines will be so easy to take care of you'll hardly have to run a comb through your hair. It'll be just right to set off that new Easter hat you have your eye on—verrry chic! So friends, call today for an appointment at Monterey 2-3996, located in the San Carlos hotel.

Here's another reminder, people, that Easter is slowly sneaking up on us and will be here before we know it. FLOR DE MONTEREY has an especially large selection of all the spring flowers you can think of, plus some heavenly plants in all bright colors. Being a member of the Telegraph Service, FLOR DE MONTEREY will send your greetings to Mom and Dad or wife and children and nothing will please them more than a lovely spring bouquet! So as soon as you have a chance, stop in at FLOR DE MONTREY, 217 Franklin street next to the Professional Building and put in your order.

TWIGS OF CARMEL is featuring separates in that everlastin' material — blue denim. They're made by Koret of California, long recognized as one of the smartest manufacturers in summer sport outfits in California. Besides skirts and jackets in the denim line, you'll find Bermuda shorts, short shorts, pedal pushers and slacks. There will be different styles, too, suitable for any type of figure. So whether you're tall, short, fat or thin, blue denim will become you. That's a promise.

The answer to your prayers is here, ladies—knit suits for only—hold your breath — $10.95! And PUTNAM & RAGGETT has 'em. The very smart little suits are two-piece, belted and with short sleeves and in such a variety of colors—there's brass green, cherry red, navy blue, aqua, pink, and beige. Yes, you'll find your most becoming color among these, and the plain "jewelry" neckline makes it so easy for any accessory to be worn with them. To go with your new outfit PUTNAM & RAGGETT is offering string gloves. They come in yellow, beige and white, and some have a straight cuff, some flared. We know you'll be satisfied.

lustrated them. There are never more than ten children at a time in Jay's delightful Hatton Fields schoolroom, and at music time they make their own songs and sing them together. Up in the tree top, I see a squirrel, Ho. Ho, Ho. How they love to sing, catching a singing sentence and repeating it over and over, knowing perhaps that even Shakespeare and many of his ilk, sometimes put into their first lines all they had to say. O Mr. Sunshine, O, Mr. Sunshine, Come out behind that cloud . . . over and over and over, the sunshine coming out in their intent and smiling faces.

Mrs. Tuthill believes that originality should be unperplexed and unfettered and she implements this conviction with the minimum of direction and the maximum of freedom. There are almost no Don'ts, and all the Do's are activated by her infectious laughter, her unceasing enthusiasm for her small ones and all they do, and the kind of love that moves mountains and turtles and the vast sea and the little bird into joyous participation with the lives and loves about them.

A tentative routine is set for the day. Creative music, dance rhythms, and a period of talks which teach the child to get up on his feet and say what he has to say and sit down. This is followed by the work hour, painting, clay manipulating, playing house with the many dolls and toys. Then the children put their things away carefully and have a mid morning lunch of fruit juices and cookies and go to the toilet. A rest period, a half hour of story and drama, a session of out door play on the big lawn, with trees to climb and all the natural activity of children let loose with beauty and a burrowing mole, and then home for the day.

Mis Jay, as they call her, believes in happiness. She knows that a happy child has the rest of his life an inexpressibly precious fund on which to draw. In her own creative heart, she realizes that it is not alone child care, but child education and child joy that come across the finish line lengths ahead of those without these blessings. The routine is as flexible as elastic, as variable as the winds. When the sun shines at the beach, or the fish come to the Monterey Wharf, or the flowers blossom on the hillside pastures, up they climb into the station wagon and off they go for a romp. In their paintings the birds and the trees, the whole jolly, fascinating world Miss Jay leads them to see with their own eyes and comment on with their own words, come to life.

And winding like a golden weft across the warp of activity at the little school, are the imponderable lesson sermons that only a fine teacher, without the use of words but alone by her character and personality and the rare gift of communicating them, can leave for a lifetime with the destinies she so significantly influences. Consideration for others, generosity, obedience to the fundamental courtesies that make for good manners, selflessness that takes nothing from selfness and love that is the only bridge to life.

There is no dissension at Miss Jay's school. With Raggety Ann and Raggety Andy to mascot them in all their activities, they play and create. They are tomorrow's artists, and tomorrow's brotherhood.

W. H. Hargrave

Following a period of delicate health that lasted almost throughout his twenty-two year residence in the Carmel area, William Hamer Hargrave died at his Pebble Beach home last Friday morning.

Born 86 years ago next September in Montreal, Canada, Mr. Hargrave spent his active years in the profession of banking. Throughout the greater part of his career he was manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Vancouver, British Columbia. Later transferred to the same post in the Victoria branch of his bank, he retired from business twenty years ago.

In 1932 he was married to Ruby Blake Williamson of Houston, Texas, and the couple came directly to Carmel to live, moving into their new Pebble Beach home in 1942.

A life member of the Canadian Club in Vancouver, a member of the Union Club in Victoria, Mr. Hargrave has been for many years a popular member of The Group in Carmel.

A kind, good and gentlemanly man and a delightful companion to his many friends, he spent much of the latter span of his years in his extraordinarily beautiful garden at the Pebble Beach home. A lover of all flowering things, a man with a green thumb, his happiest hours were spent amongst his roses, of which he had many and rare varieties. His gentle wit and his loyalty to his friends, and his courtesy to all, marked him as a man to be long remembered in this community.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Ruby Blake Hargrave of Pebble Beach; a son, J. S. Hargrave and two grandchildren, Elizazeth and Dennis Hargrave, all of Vancouver, B.C.

Funeral services were held Sunday at St. Johns Episcopal Church in Del Monte, with Theodore Bell officiating, and burial was in the family plot in Victoria, B.C.

Audience Pleased That Proceeds Of Screen Tours Are To Go To Lagoon Beach Purchase Project

Applause from the large audience in Sunset Auditorium last week greeted the announcement that profits from the last three Audubon Screen Tours this season will be turned over to the fund being raised for purchase of Carmel River Lagoon, marsh, and beach for a public recreation area. This is one of the favorite spots for bird watching, and the local Audubon Society is eagerly supporting the project for its purchase. Attendance at this fourth screen tour of the current season was among the best of the winter.

Night movies of animals, by Howard Cleaves, expert nature photographer, gave amazing pictures of shy forest dwellers, from tiny shrews, blinking owls, feeding rabbits, to resourceful coyotes, alligators, deer, going about their nocturnal affairs, apparently unconscious of their audience. And that is just what they were, for the bright lights that Mr. Cleaves carried on his shoulders hid him so completely that the animals did not know that dreaded man was stalking them harmlessly. Real night movies, not flashlights, of the interesting wild creatures searching for food, accepting eagerly the handout the man had pegged down for their night meal made this a very satisfying program.

It might have been Carmel's own raccoon night marauders raiding the garbage cans and frightening timid women—who do sometimes telephone the police—or deer in Del Monte forest, or the birds along our shore, that came to fascinating life on the screen, and the audience showed by applause and chuckles, that a screen tour can be an acceptable substitute for the real thing. Ferdinand Ruth presided at the meeting and introduced the speaker.

HI CHATTER

By Edwina Brown

A clean-up of the high school grounds was held during activity period Thursday, March 16. Each class was resporisible for cleaning-up an assigned section of the school grounds. Afterwards, all adjourned to the baseball field to see an informal baseball game between the Junior Varsity and the male members of the faculty. Both players and rooters got many laughs out of the affair. The score was tied one all when the passing bell rang. The two runs were made by Mr. Ernest Stump, U. S. History and Senior Problems Teacher, and Stuart Emery, Junior Varsity player.

At a class meeting Thursday afternoon, the Junior class voted with a great majority to have the Junior Senior Prom at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club instead of the Carmel Valley Inn. The affair will be held Saturday night, April 15, from 9:00 p.m. until 12:00 p.m.

The Junior Red Cross of Carmel High School gave a Shamrock Dance in the cafetorium, Friday night, March 17, from 8:00 p.m. until 11:30 p.m.

The decorations, in keeping with the St. Patricks Day theme, were extremely clever. Paper shamrocks and typical Irish figures lined the walls and curtains, with green crepe paper streamers stretching from the corners of the room.

Refreshments consisted of delicious home baked cakes of all kinds and the usual cokes and other "pop".

The planning committee was headed by Shirley Elliott; the decoration committee, Ann Spurr; the entertainment committee, Sherrie Henderson; the refreshment committee, Pat Finley; and the clean-up committee, Peter Lyon.

An informal luncheon party was given by Mavis Jones at her home Saturday afternoon, March 18, from 2:30 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. Sandwiches, potato salad, punch, cookies, and candy were served buffet style. Those who attended are as follows: Sherrie Henderson, Deborah Geering, Nancy Nutter, Barbara Berg, Audrey Campbell, Dianne Lewis, Donna Douglas, Suzanne Smith, Carol Templeman, and Edwina Brown. A very good time was had by all.

The Sea Scouts of Carmel gave a beach party Saturday night from 7:30 p.m. until 12:30 for all members and their dates. Weinies, potato chips marshmallows, and cokes, were consumed by all. Those couples who were present are as follows: Paula Schneeberger and Bob Stebbins, Donna Douglas and Bob Updike, Deborah Geering and Rod Dresser, Alys Knight and Hans Doleman, Ann Marie Tanous and Frans Doleman, Cathie Flynn and Thor Rasmussen, Sharon Buckner and Al Greene, Pat Gillies and Conrad Ege, Kathleen Whitaker and Stewart Emery, Sally Holt and Niels Reimers, Allen Knight and Bill White, Judy Harget and Don Canham, and Henry Overin and Bill Daniels. The party was chaperoned by "Skipper" Bob Shirley and his wife.

The Senior Play, Little Women will be presented tonight at the Sunset Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are 80 cents for students and adults and 50 cents for children. Although tickets have been sold all during the past week, they may be obtained at the door.

The play is under the able direction of Mrs. Maraquita Brey, English and Dramatics teacher, at Carmel High School. This presentation promises to provide entertainment and enjoyment for adults and students alike.

Me and the Universe

Letters to his family from a Carmel lad, twenty or thereabouts, studying art and getting into predicaments in Paris.

By Ric Masten

January 17.

Last night I said goodbye to "those dear hearts and gentle people" and went to bed all excited and all worried. Thought of travelling alone, of exploring into a strange and to me uncharted land was frightening. But once under way I was so occupied with the things I was doing and seeing that I forgot all about myself.

I left Paris at 7:30 this morning so sleepy I couldn't see. Last night I couldn't sleep because I'm one of those bright boys who thinks he can set his mind like an alarm clock. I set my superior brain at twelve, the alarm went off at one, and kept ringing all night. Right now I'm approaching Basle on the Swiss border. I change trains there and then proceed to Lucerne where I spent the first night. But that's in the future and thoughts of the future at this point are like a little boy's thoughts when it's time for his first haircut. My compartment mates as usual are a motley crew and all quite inoffensive except for the very pretty girl across from me. She plays the bass fiddle and at the moment it is resting between my knees. She keeps asking me if it is bothering me. I keep assuring her that it isn't, but I sort of feel as if I'm traveling with Count Basie's band between my legs. Otherwise, traveling is quite comfortable, except for the two kids playing "mumbly peg" around my feet. Oh yes, and the man in the far corner with the bad breath. He could clear a Henry Wallace convention from the adjoining building. I'll write a little more tonight when I get settled in a hotel, I hope.

Well, here I am in my hotel, in my room and in my bed. Outside in the streets of Lucerne snow is falling, soft as a child's whisper. Switzerland is its usual friendly self. I had a wonderful dinner but now I'm pretty tired and this bed is pretty comfortable so I had better sign off for the end of the first day. I'm going to write a little every day, sort of like a diary, and then mail when I get enough.

January 18.

Here I am on the train to Lugano. From the window dark is light. It's snowing and softness lies undisturbed. All seems to be hidden and the dirt is clean for awhile. The crouching Swiss houses peep from under lids of white, and in the branches of the trees nestle the original Christmas tree ornaments, snow. While horses' breath is steaming and Swissman's eyes are gleaming, Masten sits here dreaming. Forgive it, please, but I feel fine. Last night I slept like a snowflake below zero.

This morning I was taking my bath, standing with one foot in the wash basin scrubbing like mad and naked as a noodle in a bowl of soup when in walks the maid to tell me its time to get up. I was so surprised I dropped the soap in the wastebasket. She didn't blink an eye but said brightly, "Time to get up." I grabbed a towel and danced around the bed and said, "Thank you" She left and I climbed back in my basin and splashed around happily. Let me explain one thing, in Europe you have to spend a lot of extra money to get a bath with your room, but all rooms come equipped with wash basins. So . . .

After all this I went out and bought a camera. Quite a good one, too. I had sold my old one. I caught the train, and here I am on my way. Everytime I leave a town I'm going to send a postcard to Elizabeth so that she will know that I am okay. She worries, you know. I've decided to do them in verse form (or something like). Anyway I'll send them on as they come up. This is the one on Lucerne.

Reached Lucerne and camera bought,
Spent some money I hadn't ought.
All last night down came the flakes,
And now I'll see Lugano's lakes.

Will add more tonight after I have looked around Lugano a bit.

Warshawsky Film To Have World-Wide Distribution

Encyclopaedia Britannica has purchased the educational film, Creation of a Portrait, in which Abel "Buck" Warshawsky, nationally known painter and Carmel Art Association member, is photographed in the process of painting a portrait. The film will be distributed in 30 foreign countries by Brittanica, which is putting out a brochure containing a biography of Warshawsky. Material from the brochure will be included in the next issue of Brittanica.

"Best publicity I've ever had," said "Buck," whose success both in France and America, has been a source of newspaper and magazine articles for the past 30 years.

His autobiography published for the first time, is running serially on the feature page of the Pine Cone, and is being used as source material by Britannica.

LOTS OF HOT WATER WHEN YOU HAVE
"extra gallons"
ON HAND...

Can you do "a whopping big washing" in your home without running out of hot water? Or do you have to limit the size of the washing to the size of your water heater?

Those are two good questions to ask yourself when planning a new house or when you are replacing the present, old water heater in your home. Too often, a 20-gallon water heater is put into a home where the hot water needs require a 30- or 40-gallon heater.

Did you know that it takes 20 to 30 gallons for washing clothes and an average of 15 to 20 gallons for a shower? So if you are buying a new water heater make sure you select one that is "sized up" to your family's needs.

Carmel Craft Guild Takes On A Whole Bunch Of Projects

At the meeting of the Carmel Craft Guild last week it was announced that the State and local Monterey County Fair authorities have accepted plans for a 30 by 50 foot crafts building to be constructed on the Fair grounds by members of the Guild with materials furnished by the Fair. Hugh Comstock donated the plans for the rustic, pine log structure with entrance porch, Dutch doors, shake roof, complete with cupola and wrought iron weather cock.

It was also announced that the King City Fair has asked the Guild to exhibit and to conduct crafts in action Friday through Sunday, April 28-30. Mrs. Marian Brueck will arrange the exhibit; Jack Smith will demonstrate screen printing, Francis Whitaker will operate an outdoor forge; Glenn Minshall, a potters wheel; and Joseph Frame and Howell Armor will do woodcarving.

Plans for the Carmel Crafts Guild in cooperation with the Carmel Art Association to donate crafts works for sale along with paintings to aid in the purchase of Carmel Beach by the Pt. Lobos League were discussed. Articles for this purpose should be brought to the Ermelen Studios or The Carmel Art Shop by April 5.

The business meeting completed, refreshments were served by Helen Beecher, with Glenn Minshall officiating at the punch bowl.

Raimundo Llada To Play Here In M.A.C. Recital

A pianist of rare individuality, of sensitive and profoundly musicianly technique, Raimundo Llada, will come to Carmel in a recital for the Musical Arts Club, to be held in the Carmel Woman's Club House on Saturday evening, March 25 at 8:15.

Cuban by birth, Senor Llada has studied in Europe and in this country as a pupil of Edwin Hughes and of Fannie Bloombield Zeisler, and has only recently come to the west coast to establish himself here as a concert pianist and teacher.

His brilliant performance of the Brahms F minor Sonata, which opens the Saturday program, has brought him wide acclaim from audiences in Havana and in this country. Rated by those in this community who have heard him play as a mature artist, with originality of perception which is more than mere mastrey of his instrument, he programs his recitals with music that is a challenge as music. It has been said of his playing of the beautiful and difficult Brahms Sonata that it was that "of a great master." A group of Mozart numbers will follow the Brahms, and the Chopin Sonata in B minor will conclude the evening's selections.

Red Cross Reaches 90 Percent Of Its Quota For 1950

Ninety percent of the $14,582.00 goal, $13,253.42, has been received to date in the 1950 Fund Drive Campaign of the Carmel Red Cross. Returns have been submitted by three workers soliciting homes, and letters are now being mailed to those who have not as yet had an opportunity to contribute.

Tom Perry, Fund Drive Chairman, reports that this year's campaign is ahead of last year's due to the many more volunteer workers. Those heading the various districts are: Upper Carmel Valley, John K. Caldwell; Lower Carmel Valley, Stan D. McClurg; Highlands, Hal Boyd; Big Sur, Helen H. McGrath; Pebble Beach, Mrs. Richard Collins; Carmel, Mr. Robert Spencer.

In Carmel, heading the Business section, B. Franklin Sowell; Carmel Point, Mrs. Blanchard Steeves; Mesa, Mrs. Ted Durien; Walker Tract, Mrs. Paul Low; Upper Hatton Fields, Mrs. Howard Roloff; Lower Hatton Fields, Mrs. Frances Doud; Mission Tract, Mrs. Jerry Henderson; Carmel Woods No 1, Mrs. H. I. Gable; Carmel Woods No. 2, Mrs. Walter Burde; La Loma Terrace, Mrs. Jon Konigshofer; City District chairmen; Mrs. Mary Crile, Mrs. Mary Dekker, Mrs. Violet Weiseger, Mrs. Betty Carr, Mrs. Isabelle Terhune, Mrs. Muriel Leavitt, Mrs. Ben Cory, Mrs. Roy Larson, Mrs. Alice Sterry, and Mrs. Stuart Work.

Mr. Perry also reminds us that a donation of $1.00 or more entitles the contributor to membership in the Carmel Red Cross and an opportunity to assist in its administration.

Wanta Do A Hippo "In The Round" Or Maybe A Lazy Susan?

There is still room for a few more in Commander Howell Armor's Woodcarving Class, where everybody is having the time of his life expressing his creative urge in wood and actually producing usable and beautifully decorative articles. The group meets at the high school shop, 7:30 to 10:00 o'clock Monday and Wednesday evenings, under the auspices of the Carmel Adult School program. There are no formalities to entering the class, and no tuition charge of any kind. One just comes.

Some of the things the class is making at the present moment include the ever-popular name plates for the house and sets of carved salad plates. One hobbyist has just completed a large tray carved to resemble a banana leaf; another is engaged in carving a hippo out of African ebony, "in full round." A woman student is working on owl and pussy cat book ends, and a man has just finished a lazy susan tray.

Commander Armor says no previous knowledge in wood carving is necessary. He's prepared to teach the elementary techniques to the beginner as well as to coach the advanced amateur.

The main thing . . . everybody, duffer and star works happily together.

Artist's Autobiography

BY A. G. WARSHAWSKY

While in the Queen City I ran across my old friends, Jake Kunz and Herman Wessel, the latter now a teacher at the Cincinnati Art School. Norbert Herman and his brother Emil, the violinist, were also there. Cincinnati I found endowed with an old-world charm and picturesqueness that in America can perhaps be rivalled only by New Orleans. Its cafes were as Bohemian in atmosphere as any to be found in Paris or Munich. Foucar's Cafe, with its gathering of painters, musicians, and journalists, could more than hold its own with the Dome.

In spite of the city's German antecedents and prevailing Teutonic atmosphere, there was already a good deal of war tension, and one night at the Cincinnati Art Club I was surprised to hear a large group singing the Marseillaise. Preparedness meetings were held all over the city. Jake Kunz was among those hoping that America would join the Allies, in which case, he assured me, he would enlist at once and go to Europe. In Chicago I found the same state of affairs. At the Anderson Galleries, where my pictures were exhibited, the fact that the subjects were French brought a large public, and the newspapers in general were sympathetically inclined in noticing the exhibition.

A few portrait commissions, added to the results of various sales at the exhibition, made me feel quite affluent and turned my thoughts once more Franceward, and above all, I confess, to peaceful Brittany. But how hard it was to convince my family that in war-ridden France, where every minute of the day a dreadful toll of human life was being taken, there were still happy, smiling spaces, untouched by war, where I could work as safely as in the suburbs of Cleveland! France to them meant war and bloodshed. To me it meant much else—quiet Breton country lanes with peasants working in the fields, peaceful sunlit bays, where floating mines and submarines were less to be feared than the famous Sea Serpent; a front door in Paris, where as friend Centanini wrote me, Bicot sat for hours on end watching, listening for the returning footstep of his master!

On the morning of July 10, 1916, this time armed with an American passport, I sailed on the S.S. Roichambeau once more for France. In spite of warnings about submarines and similar war-time scares, the passenger list was fairly complete, including a number of distinguished persons, among them ambassadors and ministers of various allied or neutral countries. At our table were Billy Gard, the genial and witty press agent for the Metropolitan Opera, with his wife, and Philip Ortiz, who had assisted in organizing my first show in New York. For once the sea and I remained on good terms. The weather was warm and the ocean calm as an inland lake.

A charming Parisienne, returning to France on a visit, helped me to get back into the flow of French, which I had not spoken since I left Europe. At night port holes were closed and all lights, even those of cigarettes and cigars, forbidden on deck. But "captain's orders" could not prevent the moon from shining serenely, nor could the fear of German frightfulness impede the usual love-idylls on moonlit decks.

Early one morning we were awakened by a fearful explosion. The vessel shivered and rocked again and again amid the din of bursting shells. Barefoot, in pajamas, I rushed out of my cabin. The corridors and stairways were already filled with a pushing crowd, mostly in night attire, scrambling for the deck and lifeboats, in the belief that the ship was being attacked by a German submarine. It was only when we reached the deck that a ship's officer calmed the panicky crowd with the announcement that the gun firing was only in honor of the National Holiday, July 14. The ship's authorities had merely forgotten to warn the passengers—a typical example of gallic "m'en-fichisme," in other words, "don't-give-a-damn." But this culpable negligence, which might have had serious results, was more than compensated for by a gala dinner and dance that evening. On this occasion the usual ship's concert for the benefit of sailors' orphans was supplemented by an auction of objects contributed by the passengers. My donation was a series of caricatures I had made of some of the prominent passengers, which were sold for a good sum, Philip Ortiz making a very successful auctioneer.

A few days out from Bordeaux we were met and escorted by French torpedo boats and we steamed safely into harbor. Although the port officials made a minute examination of our passports and papers, there was no undue delay on landing. Bordeaux itself seemed to have profited by the War, at least materially, for the quiet provincial town of prewar days had now become a hustling city, where restaurants and cafes did a trade that Paris well might envy.

It was a long, hot, dusty ride to Paris, but the greeting of the Centaninis and little old Bicot, coal-eyed and fluffy, twisting and turning with joy like a miniature ballet girl, made this homecoming worth a dozen weary railroad trips. Paris appeared gayer and more colorful than when I last saw it. Thanks largely to the variety of uniforms in the streets and cafes— British, Belgian, Italian, Russian, Portuguese—it had recaptured something of the throb and rhythm of prewar days.

At the Dome, teeming with uniforms and creaking with leather, the sight of a painter in civilian clothes was rare. As for its still modest rival, the little Cafe de la Rotonde, across the way, a war cloud descended on it for the nonce—it had become suspect! It was the scene of frequent police raids, which, it was alleged, resulted in frequent arrests of suspicious persons, whose papers were not in order and who were consequently, in the official French phrase, "pushed back towards the frontier"—"refoules ver la frontiere"—i.e., dumped into someone else's territory. The cafe girls were also being subjected to strict supervision, as these votaries of Venus were known to be responsible for numerous casualties among soldiers home on leave. This menace from the rear had so increased with the duration of war, that large concentration camps in out of the way places were organized for segregating these unfortunate "daughters of joy," who had become a public danger.

A few days of the variegated, unwholesome excitements of war-time Paris made me feel thoroughly fed up, so, with Bicot packed away in his basket, I took train for Brittany, my objective this time being Perros Guiro on the northwest coast, close to the birth-place of Ernest Renan. Huge fantastic rocks outlined this stormy coastline, the black-clad inhabitants blending with the solemn harmony of the landscape. This rugged solemnity was, however, relieved and sweetened by a divine peace, serene beauty, that invited to self-concentration and work. Here in a thatched cottage, surrounded by a lovely garden, Bicot and I lived like hermits, Madame Nedelee, wife of the local postman, bringing us our frugal meals. She and her husband were the only persons with whom I conversed.

The days were spent painting and sketching among the rocks, with faithful Bicot at my heels or under my easel. Once while exploring a narrow chasm leading down to the sea, Bicot suddenly leapt forward, barking furiously, and made for an outjutting rock, on which I now for the first time noticed an artist had installed himself and his easel. At the onslaught of my little terrier, the painter had a hard time maintaining his footing, and was forced to cling to the rocks to keep from falling. Whistling Bicot to my side, I made humble apologies to my colleague, whom I already knew by sight to be Victor Charreton, a talented French painter, whose works, exhibited at the Dudensing Garreries in New York, are well known to the American picture public.

SONG

Pastoral songs will not suffice in fields beyond, and yet we turn back to the idle fields of youth, as seasons and migrations turn.

What will we do if winter comes,
that season being our own death,
unless the spring return the year and call back flowers from their death?

Summer is full and ripe; and yet when autumn comes with autumn winds we clutch the bough and fall away, turned as the leaf turns in the winds.

CHORUS

Nothing is over, but is still,
and buds are latent in the bough.
Yet we will never have our fill of water. Where is water now?

—DAVID STACTON.

BALLOON BOY

Boy, boy, with your bright balloons
beating against the sky,
why do you forget to cry: "Who'll buy?"

Is it because the sun is hot against your freckled nose and fields are ankle-deep with green that tingles in your toes?

Is it because the strings you hold pull taut as little fishes upon a line down in the creek—bent pin and willow-wishes?

Boy, boy, with your bright balloons
beating against the sky,
why do you forget to cry: "Who'll buy?"

FLIGHT OF WILD GEESE

Remembering the beauty of surprise,
Observe this transient interval of flight
As geese in echelons traverse dark skies,
Their gallant wings against the wall of night
More beautiful than sight
Records with weary eyes!

War's vast vibration lapses into peace
That permeates the world, now they have flown
To farther darkness, and this slow release
From terror is a wonder to be known,
As morning is full grown,
The dark gone with the geese!

—CARL JOHN BOSTELMANN.

Cabbages and Things

By Plantsmith

Seed catalogs must surely have been devised by some cunning mastermind who knew too much about psychology for his time. The matter of timing alone was a pretty slick idea, for who would ever glance at one of the things in the fall of the year, after a season of grind and toil in the garden? Not for me; I've grunted and groaned all summer and my back squeaks like a rusty hinge. I'm going to ease up on this gardening business from now on. That's what I always say along about October 1.

Then winter sets in, and rains and cold weather conspire with long evenings to make me think that maybe just a little gardening next year might not be too much, after all. This decision is final, of course, and then I sort of forget about it during the Holiday Season. Come the middle of January and BANG!—a snowstorm of new seed catalogs comes fluttering down on my desk until I'm knee deep in 'em.

They're awful nice catalogs this year; some of the prettiest pictures I've ever seen. But pardon me a moment while I hitch up my will power—it seems to have slipped a little. No! It's gone and vanished. But I'll have a fresh supply by next October again, so might as well dive in and prepare to go buy-buy on a long seed spree.

It is helpful, in a way, to have a flock of catalogs, so a fellow can search, and re-search, for an answer to the puzzle posed anually by the judges of the All-America Awards. Every January they come up with a list of the most worthwhile flowers and vegetables that appeared the previous year. They go to great length in extolling the virtues of each new introduction, but always stop just short of the main question: where can I buy 'em?

Vegetables surprisingly scored a three-to-one majority over flowers this year, but the single flower piled up nearly as many points as all the vegetables together, to win a coveted Gold Medal. It's a new "Spectrum-red" Petunia, and is the first really vivid red to be developed. The name "Fire Chief" suggests the color one might expect. Flowers are two-and-a-half inches across, on dwarfish plants a foot high and a foot across.

"Topcrop" is the name of the prize-winning bean in this group, and if it is half as good as the reports say it is, I certainly am going to order two or three seeds to try out in my garden. In previous years I have been reckless enough to plant a whole packet at a time, but I've been stung so many times on the old "stringless" gag that I now demand first-hand proof.

This one has a nice long list of good qualities, however, such as disease-resistance, earliness and production over a long period. It is claimed to be positively stringless and fiberless and it outyields all other varieties of bush snap beans. That's what the U. S. Department of Agriculture says about their pet bean (they grew this one from a pip), and I just can't believe that Uncle Samuel would deliberately entice me into planting a few hills of this stew-pendous bean, only to discover he had perpetrated another seed-catalog hoax on me. I think he is honest—and to prove it I will plant six seeds.

The only kind of squash that interests me is one that makes good pumpkin pies. But in view of my obligation as a dispenser of factual horticultural information, I am duty-bound to report on a new bush form of Acorn, "Unconn," by name (squash, that is). A cross between Acorn and Straightneck, it has the shape of Acorn and can be used green, as summer squash, or stored for winter use. It should be fine for a small garden, since it grows as a bush about three feet across and the same in height, and is early and prolific. Go ahead and plant seed of this, if you can find some. Maybe Unconn like 'em but I'm positive I conn't.

If this column doesn't appear next week you will know it's because I am still searching in seed catalogs for the last member of this All-America quartet; a sixty-pound "Congo" watermelon. I'm just stubborn enough to stay with it—even if I have to wade through sixty pounds of catalogs.

A photographic exhibition will be held at the Salinas Valley Fair at King City, on April 28-29-30. It is open to all amateurs living in San Benito and Monterey counties. Pictures must not have been entered for competition in any other show, must be mounted and not less than 8x10 in size. Prints may be entered in eight classes: landscapes or seascapes, portraits, animals, action, architecture, still life, and best photography portraying a scene which best typifies the Salinas Valley.

A ribbon will be awarded the photograph judged best in the opinion of the judges. Rules and entry blanks may be obtained by writing the Salinas Valley Fair in King City. All prints should be submitted by April 24.

Dr. Ralph Weston And "Assistant" Are Popular Lecturers

In the interest of The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals' program for Humane Education, for the members and prospective members of the Junior SPCA, Dr. Ralph Weston gave a lecture on The Care and Appreciation of Pets to the children of the Forest Hill School Friday morning. Dr. Weston's assistant was a small parrot, who sat on his shoulder, and served as his model for the care of birds.

Friday evening, Dr. Weston lectured at Sunset School to the Cub Pack, sponsored by the Lions Club, on the care of pet birds and the protection of wild birds. There were two short movies on kittens and puppies.

On Saturday, March 18, Mrs. Earheart brought all her pupils from the Bay School, Carmel Highlands, at 11 a.m. to the SPCA Animal Shelter, where they had a lecture on the care of pets, as well as a visit to the Shelter. The tour was completed by a visit to an animal hospital, kennel and a pet shop.

Tonight, the Cub Pack sponsored by the Church of the Wayfarer, and their parents and friends, can hear a different lecture and see different movies at 7:00 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Sunset School, presented by Dr. Weston.

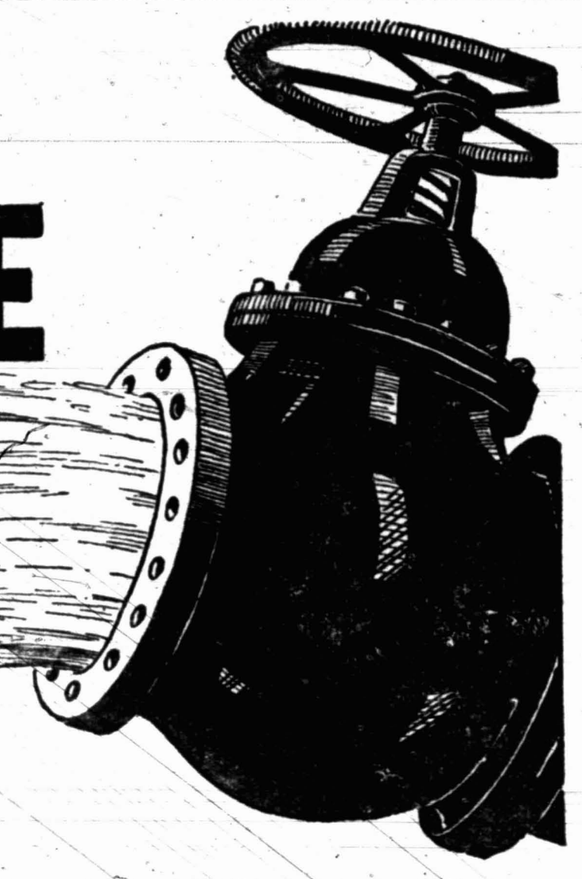
WATER PRESSURE



AND WATER VOLUME
DEPEND UPON PIPE DIAMETERS

A water distribution system is engineered to regulate flow for full volume and satisfactory pressure, and pipe sizes are determined accordingly.

Builders of new homes should also "engineer" their piping systems in order to enjoy a plentiful supply of water with adequate pressure for both household and garden use.

Frequently the pipe installed between the meter and the house is too small, and unsatisfactory water flow results. Before it is too late consult your architect or builder about the pipe sizes required to fulfill the water needs of your new home.

Carmel Teachers To Wed

Two former Carmel teachers who met in Honolulu will be married in August. Virginia Neill Rush was a Sunset School teacher for a two year period, and Edward A. Kincaid, Jr., was Art instructor in Carmel High last year.

Miss Rush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neill Rush of Pasadena, currently is teaching at the Punahou School in Honolulu. A graduate of Occidental College in Los Angeles, Miss Rush did post graduate work at the University of California in Los Angeles.

Mr. Kincaid, San Jose State College graduate, received his Masters degree at Stanford where he now is preparing his Doctorate, and serves as assistant instructor in art. He holds the Leaventritt Fellowship award. Mr. Kincaid is son of Mr. and and Mrs. Edward Kincaid of Livermore.

Morse-Somovia Wedding

Mrs. Edna Marie Hoen Morse, daughter of Mrs. Ernest M. Hoen of Carmel, was married in San Francisco Friday to Mr. John Trezevant Somovia of San Francisco and Hollister.

The simple service took place in Mrs. Morse's San Francisco apartment and was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Guiberson of Sacramento. After a fortnight in Mexico, the couple will return to San Francisco, where they will make their home, between visits to Mr. Somovia's Hollister ranch and Mrs. Somovia's mother's Carmel establishment.

San Diego Bound

Mr. and Mrs. James Kerns will turn their backs on business and follow the open holiday highway this week end for San Diego. They will spend a week of relaxation and exploration with Mr. Kern's aunt, Mrs. Marcia Kerns, and are armed with special documents to permit British born Mrs. Kerns unhindered transit over tempting adjacent borders.

World Series At Lions

The Lions had a long look at the 1949 World Series when Jim Burgess presented the film for them at Tuesday's dinner meeting. Projector for the occasion was provided by Jo Hudder.

Lion Art Blackstone brought his father, George Blackstone, to be the evening's guest.

As rain washed away Lions' last week golf tournament plans, it now is scheduled for this Sunday at 9:00 a.m.

Carol Howard Delegated

Plane reservation vagaries will decide the date next week, when Mrs. Carol Howard enplanes for San Diego. Mrs. Howard has been appointed Peninsula delegate to the State Convention of the Tuberculosis Association, to be held in San Diego April 1. She will resist the lure of lingering on Coronado beaches and return home promptly at the convention's close.

Daughter Plays Mother

To watch daughter Karen play the mother in the drama, Bill of Divorcement, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meade Williams made a quick trip to Pasadena last week end. Karen, who is in her second year with the Pasadena Playhouse has portrayed difficult and demanding roles in the school's student productions with increasing success, and is contemplating an exploratory visit to New York in the fall. After Karen's course completion this June she will rejoin her family for their annual trip East to summer on the family island off the coast of Maine.

Mrs. Jones Is South

After about four years of Carmel residence Mrs. Elizabeth E. Jones has moved southward for a long term visit with her daughter, Mrs. George MacMinn of Pasadena. Mrs. MacMinn will be well remembered locally for her many visits to her mother in this community. Mrs. Jones, a consistent contributor to the Carmel Art Gallery, was the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. A. F. Balsan, during her last year's residence on the Peninsula.

Jim Hopper To Speak

On Saturday, March 25, Dr. James Hopper will address the Monterey Academy of Medicine on the subject of acute nephritis. The address will follow the Academy dinner which takes place in the Monterey Country Club at 7:30. Dr. Hopper, son of local writer James Hopper, had his preliminary schooling in Carmel and Monterey and subsequently attended McGill and the University of California. He is now director of Central Laboratories at the University of California Hospital in San Francisco, where he also maintains a private practice. Dr. Hopper, with his wife and children, will be house guest of his father over the week end.

Jean Aydelott Engaged

Engagement of Jean Aydelott, daughter of Mrs. Lee Aydelott and the late Mr. Aydelott, to Frederick Winn, was announced last Saturday. Jean passed her Pi Beta sorority sisters the traditional candy at the University of California, while her mother made the simultaneous announcement to local friends in Carmel.

The bride-to-be is grandaughter of Mrs. R. M. Sims of Berkeley and the late Mr. Sims, well known banker. Mrs. Aydelott, who is building a Carmel Point home, has been house guest of Mrs. Joseph Stilwell pending its completion.

Frederick Winn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Winn of Belvedere, attended the University of California, where he was affiliated with the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Happy Anniversary

Locallites joined out-of-towners to help the W. O. Vickorys of Oakland celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary at the Del Monte Lodge last week. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Gamble of Carmel were among the group dining and dancing at the Lodge. Other celebrators were, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Kennedy, Jr., Miss Audrey Britt and Mr. John L. Keuffer.

Local Authors Reviewed

Clayton D. Somers gave a sweeping review of current literary publications to the Carmel Woman's Club at their weekly Monday meeting, with emphasis on recent achievement by local author's. In this connection Mr. Somers discussed The Serpent's Egg, by David Duncan, Black and White, by Martin Flavin, and Robert Weston's pictorial triumph, My Camera on Point Lobos.

In the absence of Mrs. F. E. Vaughan, Mrs. Barbara Murphy presided at Monday's meeting, and Mrs. Nora Law introduced the speaker. Chairmen were Mrs. W. C. Peterson, Mrs. Kenneth White, Mrs. Edward Canfield, Mrs. John Bedford, Mrs. William Skowran, and Mrs. Charles Fonteneau. After the meeting tea was served by Mrs. Lawrence de Aldershelm and Mrs. Clyde Faw.

March 27 the garden section will meet to hear Toichi de Moto, of Hayward, speak on the subject of camellias, magnolias, azaleas and other flowering shrubs and trees. This is an open meeting. Seventy-five cents entrance fee will be charged, Tea will be served after the lecture.

Paris Bound

Monday next will find the Abel Warshawskys on the high road—back to Paris. There will be a short detour to Cleveland for a Warshawsky family visit, and a wayside three week pause in New York city. From the De Grasse decks on April 22, they will watch skyscrappers shrink and the green ground of France will be under their feet before the first of May. From Le Havre the Warshawskys bee-line for Paris and Mr. Warshawsky's Left Bank apartment on the Rue Antoine Chantin, which has been vacant and waiting for the past winter. Paris will be their summer-long headquarters with Mr. Warshawsky busy with oils and easels in the surrounding country and Mrs. Warshawsky dividing her time between Cordon Bleu culinary and Jean Louis Barrault dramatic courses. Both are looking forward to renewal of suspended friendships and associations, and the inevitable new discoveries and surprises.

Italy holds out a minor lure before the Warshawskys' final departure, but in all eventualities they may be expected back on the Peninsula in early fall.

For Republican Women

Mrs. Eugene Prince will address the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women in the Carmel Woman's Club on March 29, at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Prince, a familiar speaker on the Peninsula, will discuss campaign issues in her address. A San Francisco attorney, Mrs. Prince has served as president of Pro-America, is a member of the San Francisco County Central Committee, the City planning commission of San Francisco, a director of the California Taxpayer Council and serves on the San Francisco Juvenile Court Committee.

During her stay as guest of the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women's Club, Mrs. Prince will address the Carmel Rotary Club Wednesday noon, again on the subject of campaign issues. Mrs. Frances Ballard, president of the Republican Women's organization, and Mrs. Milton Marquard, executive committee member of the Northern Division of the California Council of Republican Women, will also be Rotary Club guests next Wednesday.

The March 29 meeting is open to the public.

AWVS Date Change

The AWVS general meeting will be held March 30, at 1:45 in the home of Mrs. Roy Page on Scenic, two blocks south of Santa Lucia. This meeting will replace the gathering scheduled for March 31 at Holmans.

To facilitate prompt and efficient general meeting decisions, various committees will assemble during the antecedent week to consolidate their individual programs. Among committees gathering to make pre-general meeting decisions are the clothing for overseas committee, under Mrs. G. W. Whiting, and the shop committee, under Mrs. Leslie Emery.

Due to its rapid turnover the shop is again on the prowl for more contributions, with accent on spring clothing.

Home From St. Paul's

Another St. Paul scholar is winging his way westward for the spring holiday. Young Joe Hudson, son of the William Hudsons, will join his parents in their Pebble Beach home this week.

Wayfarer Auxiliary

Sweden is the most cultivated of the European countries, Worthington Holliday reported, an opinion which is supported by the very high literacy rating of the Scandinavian country. Mr. Worthington spoke to the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer on Tuesday afternoon, illustrating his talk with beautiful colored slides showing the buildings, the numerous lakes, streams, waterfalls and canals, and climaxing the views with several views taken in the middle of the night when the sun has barely set.

He sketched the long history of Sweden, showing castles and civic buildings, sculpture and paintings of the various periods, down to the very modern apartments and cooperative housing projects that are found throughout the country. In sharp contrast were views of Lapland and its people who still live in very primitive fashion, refusing to adopt present day dress, occupations and manners of life.

The meeting began with a luncheon at 12:30, with Mrs. D. E. Nixon presiding in the absence of Mrs. Walter Kreisler, president. At the business meeting reports were given on the Navajo Indian project, the fund for education of a Chinese girl, and the work of the three circles. The luncheon was prepared by Mrs. Munthe Einstab, assisted in serving by Mrs. Paul L. Budd, Mrs. Edward J. Dunlap, Mrs. Ramona C. Gahl, Mrs. G. B. Henderson, and Mrs. Guy L. Kell.

Greetings To Grandchild

Mary Lithgow Osborne, brand new daughter of the Richard Osbornes, has been making the acquaintance of her visiting grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lithgow Osborne, this week. Mary's mother, Mrs. Richard Osborne, was the former Mary Morse of Pebble Beach, and two other children, Susan and Charles are enjoying the company of their new sister and the grandparental visit.

Mr. Osborne, former United States Ambassador to Norway, and Mrs. Osborne were honored at a luncheon last Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse.

Anniversary Visit

Following established tradition a group of San Franciscans renewed an annual custom last week end in returning to Del Monte Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lovegren, Mr. and Mrs. George Langley and Mr. and Mrs. William Corbus have all made it their practice to unite at the Lodge over St. Patrick's week end to co-celebrate the birthday of one of their number, Mrs. William Corbus.

Bird's Lodge Luncheon

Dr. and Mrs. Remsen Bird held a Saturday luncheon at the Del Monte Lodge honoring Mr. Richard Crooks, the metropolitan tenor, and Mrs. Crooks. The latter were guests at the Del Monte Lodge during their brief visit and left to spend a few days with their daughter in Berkeley, before returning East.

Birthday At 85

Peter Pan Lodge was locale for a large birthday party tendered Dr. D. T. MacDougal on his eighty-fifth birthday last week. Massed spring flowers made birthday background for the occasion.

Mrs. Wendy Pickit, Lodge proprietor, assisted by Miss Diana Burke, Miss Charlotte Kett and Miss Jacqueline Fauntleroy received the 70 guests who streamed in to congratulate the honor guest.

John Morses Return

From southern waters and northern shores the John B. Morses have returned to their Pebble Beach home after about six weeks absence. The Morses began their wanderings on the Caribbean where they enjoyed three weeks of cruising, then disembarked in Florida for a visit with Mrs. Morse's mother, Mrs. Donald McLennan. They enplaned for New York and then on to New Hampshire and St. Paul's school, where they picked up son Peter for his spring holiday return to the Peninsula.

Adele Thompson Engaged

Adele Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Milton Thompson, will marry John Schumacher of San Jose on June 25, her parents announced last Saturday.

Adele, who graduated from Sunset School and Carmel High, will graduate from San Jose State College on June 23 and be married two days later in the garden of her parents' home on Camino Real and Ocean Ave. She has an older brother, Milton, now studying law at Stanford, and a younger brother, John, who attends Sunset School.

During her college years Adele majored in Social Service and has been active in campus affairs. She served as president of Delta Zeta sorority, chairman of the Junior Red Cross and is a member of the Social Service Student organization.

John Schumacher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Schumacher of Jackson Heights, Long Island, New York, is a graduate of Woodmere Academy, Rensselaer Polytechnic, and took graduate study at Harvard. He now serves as president of a business firm in San Jose.

SCOUTING The SHOPS

Your dog's favorite shopping spot, JEZEBEL'S PET SHOP, is reminding you that it is now time to get Fido, Rover, and Blackie trimmed 'cause foxtails are out and just waiting to sneak into his ears and get tangled up in his nice long hair. Good grooming is as essential in your dog as in yourself for that "bandbox" look. The apple of your eye should also be taken in for a full de-ticking and de-licing treatment. Their service is very reasonable—no foolin'! JEZEBEL'S PET SHOP offers free pickup and delivery on your dog in Carmel and you'll see that they have just about anything in the line of dog food and dog accessories—even for dogs with verry particular taste.

If you haven't already tried those delectable small Capons at MAC'S POULTRY MARKET, we are pleased to say that they have more of the same, tender and juicy—and the most devine flavor—they can be either roasted or fried, whatever that family of yours likes best! So give them a surprise, something really different and tasty that will make them sit and and look twice, serve them roasted Capon tomorrow. And as if that weren't enough, MAC'S POULTRY MARKET also have a raft of fricassees, roasters, fryers and broilers at very reasonable prices—both medium and large. You thrifty budgeters—there's a Lenten special you'll also find on Fresh Country Ranch eggs just waiting to be picked up by you.

Have you seen the "little" candle burning brightly in the window of CANDLES OF CARMEL? It's three feet high and ten inches in diameter, guaranteed to burn a whole year! This long slim candle weighs 65 pounds and as it burns the wax melts picturesque shapes and figures, giving it the name of a Character candle. CANDLES OF CARMEL has a fine selection of character candles (junior sizes, too!) plus the scented and many others that shouldn't be missed. Take a peek in the window next time you go down Ocean Avenue. It's situated right behind Sade's Restaurant.

SARGANT'S health and specialty foods are announcing a huge sale of many delectable items on their shelves. First and foremost are various Battle Creek foods such as rusks, minute brew and bran biscuits for all you who want bulk in your diet. We know that many of you have relatives in England, France and other underprivileged countries of Europe and at SARGANT'S there are still a few Christmas packages left over containing fruitcake, dried fruit, synthetic lemon powder, fruit packs in cellophane and many other items that will be enormously appreciated by your friends and relatives abroad. There is also a large selection of diabetic food, gaily wrapped in gift boxes, a good thing to buy in advance for Mother's Day. Other diatetic foods present in quantities and greatly reduced in price are crackers, wafers, cookies, breakfast food and —yes, even candies! But SARGANT'S has other than dietetic candies, their assorted candies make an ideal gift for Easter or birthdays. Come in and look around. You're always welcome. SARGANT'S is located back of the Do-Nut Den on Mission Street.

Fashions And Roses

Light little ruby red rose clumps brightened every Pine Inn table at Wednesday's fashion parade, and long stemmed shell pink roses glowed from a silver urn at the dining room's entrance.

This week's sponsors, Maxine's, featured bathing suits, fluffier post-sundown dresses, with a sprinkling of suits, summer coats and summer sportswear.

All bathing suits were modeled by Carol Tempelman, beautiful daughter of the Arthur Tempelmans and a Carmel High School Junior. Another Carmel High School pupil, Harvya Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hodges, made a successfully poised and charming debut as local model. Other models were Mrs. Ray Mann and Mrs. Mary Kastros, both familiar to Carmel fashion show audiences.

Among the half dozen bathing suits displayed by Carol Tempelman, was a classic two piece white elasticized satin under a floating terry cloth robe of frosty pale green. Harvya Hodges made a provocative date-and-dancing appearance in navy blue lace, full skirted, bodice snug, with tiny prim turnover collar and roses clustered at her waist. Mrs. Kastros opened the show in an attractive brown and chartreuse two piece print, with wide brown straw cartwheel hat. All the exceptionally attractive and becoming hats were from the Hour Glass, as were the bags and gloves.

Mrs. Ray Mann looked smartly up-to-town-clad in a classic trim jacketed suit of navy blue, with long lean lines, and red peaked hat, roomy red bag and neatly tailored red shoes.

Mrs. F. L. Wallace held a luncheon for her visiting mother, Mrs. Frank D. Lisle, to introduce her to Carmel fashions, functions and a group of friends.

Over The Border

After two and a half months in Mexico with her friend Mrs. E. Aars, formerly of Carmel, Mrs. C. W. Wulffraat is glad to be home but . . . Mrs. Wulffraat saw and heartily enjoyed everything that the usual Mexican explorer relishes, and a great deal more. In the "great deal more" class were a few days in front of volcano Paracutin which put on a particularly lusty performance while Mrs. Wulffraat and Mrs. Aars were on hand. Mrs. Wulffraat, who flew back to the Peninsula Monday, expects Mrs. Aars to return and resume her interrupted local residence very shortly.

Baha'i Meeting

Members of the Baha'i community of Monterey Peninsula met in the home of Miss Elizabeth Hay and Miss Helen Griffing last Monday, for inspirational reading and discussion. The house was charmingly gay with massed spring flowers in rose and graded blues, and refreshments were served after the reading.

As March 21 is the outstanding festival on Baha'i calendars, recent meetings and discussions largely were concerned with this event.

Republican Assembly Launched

Nomination and election of officers was completed at Monday's meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Republican Assembly of the Fifth Supervisorial District. Unanimously moved into office were: Charles McHarry, president; Peter Dyer, first vice president; Wesley Kergan, second vice president; Edward Ewig, treasurer; Mrs. E. Lee Miles, secretary; Mrs. Peggy Porter Marquard, corresponding secretary. Placed on the board of directors are: Corum Jackson, Bill LaPorte, Bud Giles, General R. L. Avery and Mrs. John Clancy.

Nominating committee, responsible for the unanimously accepted appointments were: Kenneth Ray, chairman, Mrs. Helen Park Cranston and Mrs. Frank G. Plaisted.

Mr. Enoch Richardson, California State Republican Assembly secretary and head of the San Mateo local assembly, gave a brief talk on assembly formation and reviewed the completed process in San Mateo.

This newly formed organization will serve as clearing house for all Republican groups in the fifth supervisorial district and will apply for its charter tomorrow at the Republican Assemblies convention in the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco. Going north to file the application are local members Wesley Kergan, Mrs. Peggy Porter Marquard and possibly Mrs. E. Lee Miles. About 55 interested members appeared at Monday's meeting, in Sunset School's Room 11, to sign the application. Before elections, impromptu speeches were made by Andy Jacobsen, Peter Dyer and Mrs. Helen Park Cranston and Gunnar Norberg.

Loraine-Lundblad Marriage

On Sunday afternoon at five o'clock Reverend Alfred Seccombe married Olga Loraine to Edwin Lundblad. The charming bride arrived in Carmel from England a little less than year ago and her wedding was the culmination of a whirlwind courtship. As members of her immediate family were unable to cross the intervening seas and lands in time for the ceremony, Olga was give in marriage by a close family friend, Mr. M. Glenday, of Carmel, and her attendant Joan Lundblad, is sister of the groom. The groom's brother, John Lundblad of Berkeley, was best man and the ushers were Richard Lunblad and Joseph Frame.

For the ceremony the bride wore a becoming suit of grey wool with matching accessories, lavendar scarf and veil, and carried a purple orchid. Joan Lunblad also was dressed in grey with touches of black velvet.

Olga is the daughter of Mrs. Alfred Loraine of London, and the late Mr. Loraine. She has four sisters in England, another in South Africa, and is related to the Arthur Strassburgers of Carmel. Since her arrival from England last year she has been living with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Solomon.

Edwin Lundblad came to Carmel about five years ago and has been engaged in the building business since his arrival. Last year his mother, Mrs. Jeanette Lundblad, gave up her Stockton residence and moved to Carmel to rejoin her son.

After an informal reception at Mrs. Lundblad's home, the couple left for a ten day wedding trip north, east and south to the various California scenic wonders that have so far been unvisited by the British bride.

CANDIDATES SAY YES TO TOWN HALL APPEARANCE

All five candidates for city council have indicated their willingness to appear on Town Hall Program, 7:30 p.m., March 31, at Sunset Auditorium to express their views on the Advisory Question, according to Gunnar Norberg, member of the program committee.

Moderator for this session will be Mrs. Ida Newberry.

Visiting Mother Entertains

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Vosburg of Southern California, is testing the comforts of the newly spruced guest house of her daughter and son in law, Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster. She plans to limit the experiment to a week by which time the Rusters expect to have run the entire gastronomical gamut of the Peninsula in Mrs. Vosburg's company. Mrs. Vosburg drove north with Mrs. Fred Carter, who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Janet Jenks.

TROPHY FOR AULANI

Proud and prancing, at the head of the St. Patrick's Day Parade in San Francisco Sunday, K. D. Mathiot's Arabian stallion, Aulani, came home to his Carmel Valley corral with the bluest ribbon of the day, Best Parade Horse in the long string of handsome horses. His trophy, to be presented at special ceremonies in the near future, will stand among the many in the big living room at the Mathiot Ranch.

On the day of Aulani's return from the city his first spring offspring was born to him and Narlah. Christened Narlani, the budding stallion, wabbling among the poppies beside his mother, is a beauty.

Both Aulani and Narlah are registered with the Arabian Horse Club.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Reality" is the subject of the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, March 26, with the Golden Text taken from Isaiah: "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him" (64:4).

The sermon will be comprised of other verses from the Bible and correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following:

The Bible: "Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the former rain moderately, and he will cause to come down for you the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month. And ye shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the Lord your God, and none else" (Joel 2:23, 27 to:).

Science and Health: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven, — the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen" (p. 208).

Why Don't We Accept The Rules Of The Game And Play Accordingly?

little people who want to get in on a ground floor.

As a landlord, I, too, would like a chance to build up a flourishing rooming house or hotel business in the residence area. And if there is to be spot-zoning, I, too, want in with my group of lots we have owned since 1911.

But—and this is a great big BUT—have you read the preamble to Carmel-by-the-Sea's zoning ordinance drawn up some ten years ago and said "Amen" to by the citizenry? It expresses eloquently that Carmel is a place of homes. And when it says "homes" it means "homes" in which children and dogs play and about which gardens flourish.

On the other hand, anyone can see in a brief drive through the commercial area of Carmel enough vacant lots and old houses, not to mention new apartments and rooming houses, to take care of all the rooming house demand in Carmel for years to come.

Why don't we just settle down to accepting the rules of the game and playing it accordingly? If the Carmel business zone is too rich for our purses, there's Pacific Grove and Seaside. Why go to work to spoil what has now a high value because it has not already been degraded?

I think I'll go out as a property owner and vote against any relaxation of the rooming-house laws, even though I might profit in a short term way by a change.

E's Note: Had the Carmel Real Estate Association gone on record with a "no" vote on the advisory question as was proposed by their president, Corum Jackson, at their last meeting, and was done by the Carmel Business Association at their recent meeting, we should have asked Mr. Lloyd to delete his criticism of the "real estate agents" on the grounds that he was misinformed. The real estate people we have known have been not only ethical in their dealings with clients but take the long range view of the intelligent businessman regarding the practical advantage of protecting values of residential property by keeping out commercial infringement. However, in view of the action of the Real Estate Association, I was wrong apparently in assuming that the majority of the local realtors were like those I know. —W. C.

With New Decor Aloha Bar Opens At San Carlos Hotel

Jarring jackhammers gave way to tinkling ice cubes and decorator tools were replaced by gleaming cutlery as the new Aloha bar and dining room in the Hotel San Carlos was opened today.

Forest green, chartreuse and grey suffused in a tropical motif of lush foliage and mirrored panelling was the decor chosen by Lloyd Elves, manager of the hotel who designed and supervised the construction.

Formal opening today of the dining room and adjoining Aloha bar was announced by Mrs. Faye M. Scott, owner of the hotel.

REGISTRATION AHEAD

March 27 through April 1 will be registration week for conscientious citizens. The Monterey Peninsula and Salinas Chapters of the League of Women Voters and the County Board of Supervisors have proclaimed. Mrs. Edwin Tucker, voters' service chairman, announces registration booth locations as follows: Post Office front March 29 and 30; Sam Colburn home, Pescadero Road; Gledhill's; Stallings Stamp Shop; Robert Leidig office, East Dolores near Ocean; Mrs. Constance Low's home, Ridgewood Road, and Staniford's Drug Store.

The registration project was enthusiastically endorsed by both Andy Jacobsen, Board of Supervisors chairman, and Fred Godwin, local mayor.

GRAND JURY LIST

Today 30 names will be drawn in Salinas from the Grand Jury list selected this week. Of the 30, 19 will be selected on April 3 to serve on this year's Monterey County Grand Jury. On the first list are the following names from Carmel, Carmel Valley and Pebble Beach: Charles M. Menzies, Jesse Feiring Williams, Robert C. Prindle, Paul Porter, Jeanne Tucker, Henry Tiedeman and Dudley Swim.

FREE MOVIE FOR KIDS

The American Legion Auxiliary is to sponsor a free movie show for all the kids of Carmel at Legion Hall, March 29, starting at 7:30 p.m. It will be a two-hour show including shorts and two long movies. Subjects will be sports and scenics, cowboys and circuses.

Peace In Sight Between B.R.T. And Joe's Taxi; Here's Nellie's Story

my hundreds of Carmel customers and friends the matter of the Monterey Bus Line's discontinuing to use my terminal with its comfortable waiting room, covered runway and other conveniences.

I did not refuse B.R.T. the use of the terminal—the B.R.T. management, apparently on instructions from the trustees in San Francisco, simply announced they would no longer come through the Joe's Taxi terminal. The result was that I could no longer look after the Carmel passengers, and they had to stand in the cold and often the rain.

Joe, my husband, before he died had bought some equipment from B.R.T. and a dispute had developed over that contract, which might not have occurred had Joe lived. This contract matter had absolutely no connection with the monthly rental of my terminal building by B.R.T., yet the bus management had been holding up their terminal rental payments to me.

When my attorneys served notice that the rentals must be paid, as they had been in 1948, the B.R.T. chose to dispense with the terminal. They did not discuss the matter with me or my counsel—they simply said, a day or two beforehand, that they were no longer using it. This decision, of course, inconvenienced Carmel citizens.

My counsel have been instructed by me to work out any solution which will be fair and equitable to me, to them, and to Carmel.

In connection with certain matters of bus zoning which seem to have come under discussion, it should be noted that my bus terminal is established under my State Franchise for the use of the Carmel Valley Line buses, which still operate from here.

The temporary road up the Valley is so steep in spots, and so potentionally dangerous for a bus load of school children and adults, when gravel is used to cover the ruts, that as a safety factor and in spite of higher gasoline expense, I am using limousines and cabs to carry the customers for the present.

My gang call it the "donkey caravan" but it serves my purpose in continuing the "Joe's Taxi" tradition of maximum safety in Carmel service, which my husband established over the past years.

Sincerely yours,
Nellie Oliveiro, Admix.
